

NEWS OF THE MORNING.

A Post Washington special says: Judge Davis will not indicate his acceptance of the Senatorship until the 4th of March. Meanwhile rumors that he will decline have been circulated by the Democrats to reconcile the Republicans to the idea of having him serve as the fifth Judge on the Commission. The Republicans are unanimous against his serving, while the Democrats insist that he should be selected.

The House Republican caucus has chosen Garfield and Hoar representatives of the party of the House branch to the Tripartite Electoral Commission. McCrary declined the nomination. Hoar had 42 votes to 40 for Hale. Garfield was the unanimous choice.

All the telegrams in relation to the Oregon case passing between New York and Oregon during December, are in the hands of the Senate Committee but not yet examined.

Judge Mackay, of South Carolina, has granted a preliminary injunction restraining State Treasurer Cardozo and Comptroller General Dunn from drawing any warrants or paying out funds from the State Treasury under the Appropriation bill passed by the Mackay House at its late session, upon the ground that the body was not the legal House of Representatives.

SCHOOL ROOM VENTILATION.

The medical profession are beginning to devote their attention seriously to the important matter of school ventilation, which has rarely received the consideration it merits. Nobody who has at any time been a visitor of schools, needs to be reminded of the close and heated atmosphere which is generally encountered in such places; but it seldom provokes comment, from the absence of a proper sense of the detrimental influence it exercises. Teachers frequently complain of the dullness of their pupils, without thinking or suspecting that this dullness is due to the depressing influence of a close and impure atmosphere in the school room.

Either from carelessness, arising out of habitual imprisonment in bad air, or on the plea of keeping out of the cold, those in charge of schools too frequently conduct the business during the entire day with closed windows and doors. This practice is alike deleterious to mental and bodily health. The energies of teachers and pupils are deadened, and much of their exertions count for nothing. Perhaps it is not going too far to affirm that one hour's work in a well ventilated room affects a larger result than three in a room that is not well ventilated. This consideration alone, apart from the question of health, ought to influence teachers in keeping their windows open at proper intervals. But the health of the children is of paramount importance to the public, for in childhood and youth the seeds of disease are sown which make feeble and nervous men and women in after life. Children cannot study, teachers cannot instruct, while mind and body are depressed by the want of pure air to breathe, and their health is undermined, and the public intentions frustrated, by the prevalence of this practice of working with closed windows. We are glad the doctors are taking the matter in their hands, and we trust that their action will result in the creation of a vigorous public sentiment on the subject.

More boots have been manufactured at Spencer, Mass., the past year than in any previous one, and the prospect for an early resumption of business is good. Isaac Ponty & Co., the largest firm, turned off 33,000 cases.

More Senators.—Ben Hill has been elected United States Senator from Georgia. H. D. Davis is elected from West Virginia for the long term and F. Hereford for the short term.

The Louisiana rice crop is in excellent condition. About 45,000 acres more than last year were sown, and the yield is estimated at 200,000 to 225,000 barrels for market.

The plate turners in the nail factories of Wareham, Mass., complain that they are unable to earn more than 90 cents or $1 per day of eleven hours.

NEWS OF THE MORNING.

No bill before the country has attracted more attention than the Compromise measure just passed by Congress. The next step in the programme is to gain the President's signature, of which there is no doubt, and if he signs it a joint committee will meet in the hall of the House on Thursday next for the purpose of counting the electoral votes. A caucus of the Republican members of the House of Representatives was held yesterday morning, and a caucus of Democrats will be held on Monday evening, for the purpose of selecting five members to represent the House on the commission, provided by the Electoral Count bill. Three members will be Democrats and two Republicans of the respective caucuses, and they will determine upon those whom they will elect in the House. The Republican and Democratic Senators will hold similar caucuses, and elect three Republicans and two Democrats. Associate Justices Clifford, Miller, Strong and Field, designated by the bill, will, on Tuesday next, select another Associate Justice as the fifth judicial member of the commission. Associate Justice Clifford will be President of the commission.

THE STATE AND THE BONANZAS.

Since the first quarter of 1876 the California and Consolidated Virginia Mining Companies have not paid on their proceeds, and are still resisting the collection of the tax in the Courts. The amount now at stake, due the State and Storey county, is over two hundred thousand dollars, and the right of the State to collect any tax on the proceeds of the mines is also involved. These facts, which we glean from Controller Hobart's report, would seem to be a sufficient recommendation for the Legislature now in session to pass such measures as will enable the Controller to prosecute these suits with all possible dispatch, employing the best of legal talent, and securing some kind of a decision at an early date. There is every reason to believe that such a decision will be favorable to the State. We have shown the Central Pacific Railroad that it is not the law. Now let the State assert its superiority over other incorporations, even though they are the big bonanzas.

"HERALD" CONGRATULATIONS.

—In an editorial yesterday the Herald says: "We congratulate Congress on its wise and statesmanlike action in this great emergency. We congratulate Grant on his noble emancipation from party prejudices, and on the strong moral support he has given to this bill by his early declaration that he would promptly sign it, thus abating party opposition, and facilitating the passage of the bill. We congratulate the Joint Committee, and especially Conkling, its most illustrious member, on the successful result of their patriotic labors. We congratulate the country on its relief from formidable danger. And, finally, we congratulate our respected fellow-citizens, Tilden and Hayes, on the certainty that the title of the next President will be excepted as valid, and that both branches of Congress will co-operate with him in measures for promoting tranquility and the business interests of the country."

STAY WHERE YOU ARE.—OUT

exchanges contain warnings to people out of employment to keep clear of the respective places in which they are published, as there is little or no work there. And they add that there are hundreds of people waiting for employment. There is little, therefore, made by wandering around looking for work. Better remain at home and do the best you can, and if you have only partial work, stick to it. There seems to be an impression that when the present political complications are settled business will revive, and give us all a chance to earn our daily bread. Let us hope so. The toiling classes have had a severe struggle for two years past.

HUGH J. O'REILLY and wife have began suit in the Nineteenth District Court of San Francisco to recover $152,000 from Flood & O'Brien, alleging that the firm have swindled them out of 100 shares of old or 500 of new Consolidated Virginia stock, and paid over to them only $4,000 out of $21,000 dividends, which they collected on plaintiffs' stock.

NEWS OF THE MORNING.

The general mining situation has not been changed, except for the better since our last report. The healthy tone of the market has been continued, notwithstanding adverse reports from the mines have been greatly exaggerated in San Francisco, and the usual and a partially successful attempt thereupon has been made to break the market. But the mass of the people there, as here, have now a firm confidence in the future of those mines which have been the chief point of attack, and the effort to dislodge that confidence has been ineffectual. This bearing attack seems to have weakened somewhat yesterday, and the consequence was kindly advanced in the stocks.

The report from the mines which is found below has been so carefully compiled and will be found so full, especially where information is most sought, that there is no need of particularization on the general situation here. Still had the worst reports which have been circulated in regard to the "horae" stabling in the bonanza been true, the situation would not have been at all alarming on that account. Large ore bodies have seldom been encountered on the levels of the Comstock that the ledge in the immediate vicinity has not been more or less broken and the breaks are just the most positive indication of continued ore beyond and generally the bigger the "horae" the bigger the ore body.

While the great central point of attraction has been the bonanza mines, developments have been going on quietly and with good results in other places. The report of the Justice will be read with a great deal of interest, for it is worthy of a careful perusal. The full resources of the mine are being called out, and the Atlas mill has been added to the others crushing Justice ore. The winza in the Overman is also disclosing something of value. But all these points will be gathered from the report, and when the real situation is seen and comprehended the outlook will be found to be especially favorable.

PRESIDENT GRANT ON THE "COMPROMISE."

—A Herald's Washington special says one of the Southern Senators who called on the President yesterday relative to an appointment in his State, found him thoroughly informed on all the minor details and general principles of the electoral bill. Grant first made allusion to the discussion which its passage in the Senate had provoked, and said that he not only gave his approval of the bill, but was perfectly satisfied that in the absence of a provision in the Constitution for counting the vote, the present emergency from its unusual character demanded some method of settling the doubts and disputes about the election. This was absolutely necessary, he said. Unless it was done, whoever might be inaugurated could not enter upon the discharge of his duties with that efficiency and ability which the interests of the country would require during the next four years. To do that needed the acquiescence of all parties in the rightfulness of his title. It was necessary that the people should feel perfectly convinced. He held the position that it was justly in order to set at rest all discontent and opposition.
